banks after 31-3-85 for opening bank offices at rural and semi-urban centres under the previous policy were not considered by them for licensing and are not being treated as pending. Under the current branch licensing policy for 1985-90 the task of identifying potential growth centres requiring banking facilities has been entrusted to the Groups set up for the purpose by the lead banks. The lists of identified centres are then required to be finalised by the concerned State Government and these have to be forwarded to the RBI for its consideration for issue of licences for opening bank offices in accordance with the branch licensing policy. The process of identification of centres is in various stages of progress in the different States. RBI would consider the lists of identified centres when such lists are forwarded by the State Governments in accordance with the branch licensing policy.
